Adventist Women Aid 338 With Clothing In 1957

Disaster relief, general welfare work and support of foreign missions were outstanding projects of the Torrance Seventh-day Adventist church this year, according to reports made at the closing business meeting for 1957.

Commending members for their support of the church program "through another successful year," Glenn L. Goffar, pastor, pointed out that the material achievements of any church are of significance only as they are a reflection of spiritual vitality.

Myrtle Gilman and Betty Muth, Dorcas Welfare society leaders, reported 9000 articles of clothing had been processed and given to needy persons locally during the year without regard for race or creed. Three hundred and thirty-eight persons were helped. Adventist churches around the world distributed a total of 4,633,032 articles of clothing last year, and 5,432,042 persons were helped by lay activities.

Church offerings for the year in Torrance reached $30,895.12 of which over $13,000 was earmarked for missions. Although the total membership of the denomination is little more than one million, the church carries on medical, educational, and gospel work in 185 of the 205 countries of the world. Seventh-day Adventist membership in Torrance now numbers 222—with an increase of 42 members for 1957.

The members of the Torrance Adventist church support a constituency church school in order to provide Bible training for their young people. This year there are 189 students with 50 attending from the Torrance area. The church school is one of 5222 schools operated by Seventh-day Adventists, 346 of which are above elementary level.

Church Leaders Receive Training

Twenty-four welfare leaders representing 75 Seventh-day Adventist churches from Ventura, Santa Barbara, and Los Angeles Counties, will meet in Los Angeles Tuesday, to participate in the first of a series of three Civil Defense training programs. The "Preparedness Course," consisting of nine lessons and prepared by the Federal Civil Defense authorities for training purposes, will be presented to the group by Mrs. Chester Meyer, Director of the Church's Southern California welfare organization.

In discussing the training program, Mrs. Meyer indicated that topics relative to first aid, stockpiling of provisions, emergency shelters, sanitation, etc., would be dealt with in the "Preparedness Course." She predicted that the entire nine lessons would be covered in three full days of classes—the first on February 11 and the remaining two at times to be selected. Meeting at the Church of Southern California Welfare Center located at 3131 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles, the 24 leaders will be trained to teach the same course to other local church welfare directors who in turn will be responsible for getting the message across to the nearly 20,000 southland Seventh-day Adventists.

Juvenile Delinquency Is EVERYBODY'S PROBLEM

We hope that this page will serve as an "OPEN FORUM" for the people of our communities. We are inviting you to write letters which will be published on this page. The alarming rise in juvenile delinquency can be stemmed. So let us talk it over through the columns of this paper. Just sit down and write a letter. What is your idea? We all love these youngsters. What can we do to help straighten them out before they become involved.

This is your "OPEN FORUM"

The opinions expressed in the letter and editorials are not necessarily the opinion of the Torrance Press nor of the sponsors who have made this page possible.

WHAT NEXT?

Recently in Los Angeles County we were more startled by that "NEWEST KICK" our teenagers have discovered than we were by Russia's pronouncements.

Our teenagers, quite naturally, with their inquisitive minds seek new things and many times trouble follows.

According to the sheriff's office in the eastern part of our county some teenagers found a manner by which they could get a "KICK" and really cheap. Just ten cents buys a tube of glue. This vicious little tube is used by the teenagers to inhale the benzene fumes for exhilarating effects. It is a model airplane glue.

Federal officials and Sheriff's officers say that this can result in death or permanent injury to a youth. This addiction can cause asphyxiation and heart failure and a gradual breakdown resulting in death.

William Prillmayer, assistant chief of the Los Angeles office of the United States Food and Drug Administration, explained that his office is powerless to halt the practice.

"It's a problem for the police and sheriff's office. We have no jurisdiction because the fluid being inhaled is not a food, drug or cosmetic.

The only answer to this problem as all other problems of juvenile delinquency is in the home. Perhaps an old-fashioned kick should be administered to the parents of these young Americans.

There will, of course, always be juvenile problems as long as mankind exists, but possibly are the problems increasing? Yes, with the faster pace of our daily life, the reduction of physical activities and shortcuts made possible in our daily routines, we find the youngsters with more time to expend in activities which always pose a problem. Some of the problems which the younger folks have to face are not of their own doing, but on the insistence of the adults of the community and the homes. The community by virtue of growth has removed considerably the experiences so necessary for the younger folks to sink their teeth into in order to learn right from wrong, such as the lack of facilities for the kids to experience the rudiments of nature on an afternoon or Saturday outing in the nearby area. A young man learns a lot just roaming in unpopulated areas; he may get into minor mischief, but he is out there where he can apply a clear head and solve difficulties and problems, but can he do this on a street corner or congested room with many opinions proposed? More than likely he will follow the easiest suggested route to reach satisfaction for these unworkable problems. Along with the youth trying to make decisions and occupying his leisure time is his parents hustling to provide the means to provide the shortcuts to everyday life so the youth has more time on his hands and then in return the parents haven't the time or patience at a day's end to give this youth the just time to help guide and lead him to the common solutions to these insurmountable problems he has. So the youth turns to his parents for help and eventually the wrong suggestions or solutions come up and then we call him a juvenile delinquent, all because the parents were too busy and unknowingly contributing to the reasons rather than to solutions to the questions and quest for knowledge of our youth.

Our teenagers in recent years have been straying farther and farther from the family home in search of experience and adventure. True they must try their wings and seek the answers to their newly discovered problems of living, but will they get the right answers among their own group, their chance acquaintances, whose knowledge is not more than their own? Hardly will be the majority develop other than in the pattern of their immediate group, leaving much to be desired at times.

I feel that a major contribution toward a solution is family unity. Activities to help absorb this energy and surplus time for which we have been able to provide for our youngsters.
